6. Refunds shall be processed only in cases of accidental duplicate payments made by mistake for the same participant or team.
7. Duplicate payment refund requests must include:
 - Payment screenshot
 - Transaction ID
 - Registered email address
 - Registered phone number
 - Date and time of payment
8. AntiLabs reserves the right to verify payment records before approving any refund request.
9. Refund requests without sufficient proof may be rejected.

10. Refund processing time shall depend upon payment gateway and banking procedures.

3. Hackathon Format

1. The hackathon shall be conducted entirely online unless otherwise announced.
2. Participants must join all official communication channels before the event begins.
3. Problem statements shall be released only at the official start time.
4. Teams shall have 48 hours to build and submit their projects.
5. Any updates, announcements, deadline extensions, clarifications, or modifications shall be communicated only through official AntiLabs communication channels.
6. Participants are responsible for regularly checking official announcements.
7. Lack of awareness of announcements shall not be accepted as a valid reason for any exception.

4. Project Requirements

1. Projects must be substantially developed during the hackathon period.
2. Open-source libraries, APIs, frameworks, SDKs, and publicly available developer tools may be used.
3. Any pre-existing code, templates, boilerplates, or reusable components must be disclosed during submission.
4. Projects must demonstrate originality, innovation, and meaningful implementation.
5. Direct copies or clones of existing products may be disqualified.
6. Projects must comply with applicable laws and intellectual property rights.
7. Projects containing illegal, offensive, hateful, discriminatory, malicious, or harmful content may be rejected immediately.
8. AntiLabs may request development proof, commit history, screenshots, recordings, or explanations to verify project authenticity.
9. Failure to provide satisfactory evidence of development may result in disqualification.

5. Submission Requirements

Each team must submit:

- Source code repository
- Complete project documentation
- Deployment link (if applicable)
- YouTube demonstration or presentation video
- Any additional documents requested by AntiLabs

Additional Rules

1. Incomplete submissions may not be evaluated.
2. Late submissions shall not be accepted unless explicitly approved by AntiLabs.
3. All submitted links must remain publicly accessible until completion of the judging process.

4. Broken repositories, inaccessible deployment links, corrupted files, or unavailable videos may result in rejection or reduced evaluation.
5. Submission of required deliverables does not guarantee qualification for judging, finalist selection, prizes, certificates, or internships.

6. Code of Conduct

1. Participants must maintain professional and respectful behaviour throughout the event.
2. Harassment, discrimination, hate speech, abusive language, threats, or misconduct shall result in immediate disqualification.
3. Participants shall not interfere with the work of other teams.
4. Participants shall not impersonate organizers, judges, mentors, sponsors, or other participants.
5. Any attempt to threaten, influence, intimidate, or pressure organizers or judges shall result in immediate disqualification.

7. Intellectual Property

1. Participants shall retain ownership of their original projects.
2. By participating, teams grant AntiLabs a non-exclusive, royalty-free permission to showcase submitted projects, screenshots, videos, logos, presentations, and participant names for promotional, educational, marketing, and reporting purposes.
3. Participants must possess all required rights for any third-party assets used.
4. AntiLabs shall not claim ownership of participant projects.

8. Fair Play Policy

1. Plagiarism is strictly prohibited.
2. Copying another team's work shall result in immediate disqualification.
3. Use of purchased source code, pirated software, stolen repositories, leaked solutions, or unauthorized proprietary code is prohibited.
4. AI tools may be used only as development assistants.
5. Participants must fully understand and be capable of explaining any AI-generated code submitted.
6. AntiLabs reserves the right to conduct interviews or code reviews to verify participant understanding.
7. Any attempt to manipulate judging, voting, evaluation, or event outcomes shall result in immediate disqualification.

9. Judging & Evaluation

1. All projects shall be evaluated solely by judges appointed by AntiLabs.
2. The evaluation methodology, judging parameters, scoring system, weightage, submission criteria, evaluation process, and winner selection process shall be determined exclusively by AntiLabs.
3. Submission of all required deliverables does not guarantee evaluation, finalist selection, prize eligibility, or declaration as a winner.
4. AntiLabs reserves the absolute, exclusive, and unrestricted right to determine winners regardless of:
 - Number of submissions
 - Project complexity
 - Team size
 - Public opinion
 - Community feedback
 - Any expectations of participants
5. AntiLabs may reject, ignore, or exclude any submission that does not satisfy internal quality standards, even if all required deliverables have been submitted.
6. AntiLabs reserves the right to modify judging parameters, evaluation criteria, weightage, submission requirements, or prize categories at any stage if required.
7. The decisions of AntiLabs and the judging panel shall be final, binding, conclusive, and non-negotiable.
8. No appeals, disputes, objections, reviews, reconsideration requests, or legal claims regarding judging decisions shall be entertained.

10. Prizes & Certificates

1. Prizes shall be awarded only to teams declared as winners by AntiLabs.
2. Participation certificates shall be issued only to eligible participants fulfilling all applicable requirements.
3. AntiLabs reserves the right to withhold prizes or certificates in cases of rule violations.
4. If no submission meets the quality standards determined by AntiLabs, organizers reserve the right to declare no winner in one or more prize categories.
5. Prize distribution may be subject to identity verification and eligibility confirmation.
6. Prizes are non-transferable and cannot be exchanged for cash or other benefits unless expressly decided by AntiLabs.

11. Disqualification

Participants or teams may be disqualified for, including but not limited to:

- Plagiarism
- Copied work
- Fake submissions
- Fake identities
- Misrepresentation
